

Building directions:

Carbon atoms must have four bonds; they can be connected to hydrogen atoms or other carbon atoms.

Hydrogen atoms must have only one bond; they can only be connected to carbon atoms, not other hydrogen atoms.

With your partner, build a molecule with one carbon atom (it's called methane). Show it to your teacher.

Then build a molecule with two carbon atoms, following the rules above.